

New From Ilkley Brewery

Demand for the hand-crafted ales from Ilkley Brewery continues to increase, and the brewery has developed a new brand to compliment their current cask-conditioned range. The brewing team have used their award-winning experience to target a part of the market that has for so long been dominated by an expensive product that has not adapted to account for the improving British palate, offering discerning clientele something local, something artisan, something full of flavour.. MJ Fortis looks like the perfect pint of Stout. It tastes like the perfect pint of Stout. It is the perfect pint of Stout.

Following the great reception received by the Artisan Pale on its release in November 2011, the MJ brand now includes an Artisan Stout. MJ Fortis will be launched officially at Calls Landing in Leeds, on Thursday 19th January.

It is a thick and full-bodied stout, with a rich finish and a lustrous creamy head. There are mocha chocolate and coffee aromas, and on the palate; a hint of liquorice, berries and smoke. Register your attendance at the event page to be sure of entry, and of course your free taster of MJ Fortis!
